In fact, the class was particularly noticeable for the intelligence and ability written upon every tace-so much so, that considerable comment was passed regarding that special feature of its appearance, as well as the youthfulness of the members by many observing people in the members by who pronounced the entire programme pre-sented a very enjoyable one, and one that reflected great credit upon the master minds that trained and instructed the students. The exercises were viewed with great natisfaction also by the members of the Cen-tral Board of Education, who, with their ladies, occupied the lower boxes on either side of the theater, as well as by the faculty of the High School, who were seated in the side of the theater, as well as by the faculty of the High School, who were seated in the upper loxes.

"The Eight-Hour Movement," by Mr. George A. Holiday, was the first member on the programme, and was a strong, able plea, embodied in terse, well-fitted language, for the reduction of the laboring man's hours.

Miss Matilda H. Schenck, who received second honor, followed in a well-writter and nicely delivered discourse upon "A Probbet Not Without Honor, Save in His Own Country," and the people who go to Europe to enjoy fine scenery, wear imported clothing and rate their appreciation of musician, physicians, actresses and actors according to that expressed for them in Europe, to the ignoring of home scenery, home talent and home products, were held up in anything but a favorable light.

"The Girl of the Future," by Miss Mary A. Lyttle, was a very optimistic view of that coming maiden, for which she based her claims upon the progress the girl of the present has made over the girl of the past. Not an angel, nor a being below man, but his equal in every respect, is the young lady, idea of her subject.

Mr. Charles A. Poth, in "Our Navy," delivered quite a rebuke to Unite Sam, in very telling language, and advised nim to enlarge, materially, and embellish in a great many ways the navy of our country, on which depends so much hit time of war.

A vocal duet by Misses Elizabeth Ulrich and Lillie Chalmers, "The Land of the Swallows," at this point was a very agreeable interlude, and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, who roundly applauded the guitsh singers.

"There Great Documents," as handled by Miss Bertha D. Stein, the young lady who carried off second honor in the normal department, increased in importance, and the last one, named "The Declaration of Independence," must have been very much pleased with the reception it received, when introduced by the young lady.

Warned Of The Danger Line.

WARNED OF THE DANGER LINE. Miss Amanda C. Koch was excused from reading, and Miss Hattie Wood warned all her fisteners to beware of crossing "The Danger Line," either in religion, politics or social pleasures.

Mr. Harry C. Holliday held "Pittsburg" up to view in a very systema ic manner, extolling her virtues, which are many, and gently but tartly criticising her weak points in a manner of delivery that was exceedingly enjoyable and carried conviction to many older minds that probably had not given the city the same hought expended upon it by the young man.

Miss Bertha Ziegler, who claimed the first honor, very beautifully performed her office as waledictorian in a serious, thoughtful and touching address that abounded with clever thought and intense feeling.

The presentation of diplomas followed, and the enjoyable programme that had been freme enjoyable programme was "superlatively fine."

Prof. Dodds, before presenting the diplomas, remarked that the smallness of this year's class was due to the fact that one-third of the class of 1890 availed themselves of the opportunity afforded by the Board of Controllers of making the course a year longer for those who desired to perfect themselves for teaching and will remain another year. "Valse Brilliante." To her was awarded the gold medal presented by Mr. George W. Childs, of Philadelphia, and the young lady was, in the opinion of all present, fully envited to this honor. Miss Cosgrave, it may be added, is also an accomplished violinist, and in the orchestral music took the leading parts. Pittsburg has certainly reason to be proud of this gifted young lady. "On the Beautiful Rhine," performed by the Young Ladles' Orchestra, was specially well received, and evidenced skillful training under their distinguished teacher and laithful study by the popils. In this selection all the students in the musical department were represented. The Halleluiah Chorus, from the "Messiah" (Hannel), Terretto, from "William Tell" and the chorus "Spirit Immortal," from Attila (Verdi), are all worthy of special menton. In the latter Annie Savarese distinguished herself as sonist. Her wonderful voice—sweet pure and fickible—brought forth murmurs of surprise and admiration. "Home, Sweet Home," an episode of the Civil War, was touchingly rendered by the elocution class. David D. Evans

The honors and rewards were conferred by the Rev. Dr. Wall, of St. Paul's Cathedral, who P., F. W. &C. R. R., to Mr. HOMER J. LINI SAY, of Allegheny. CASSIDY—On Tuesday, June 24, 1890, at 10:30 P. M., ROSE ANNA CASSIDY.

the Rev. Dr. Wall, of St. Paul's Cathedral, who represented the Rt. Kev. Bishop Phelan. Gold medals were presented to the following young ladies. To Miss Agnes Donohoe, for mathematics, to Miss Agnes Donohoe, for mathematics, to Miss Henrietta Cosgrave, for music; Miss Gertrude Darrach, for literature, and to Miss Marie Ewing, for history. Mention cannot be made of all the pupils who took part so creditably in the exercises. The Rev. Dr. Wall addressed the graduates in his usual happy manner, and gave them excellent advice pertaining to the development of character. Among the clergymen present were the Rev. Pathers McKeever, Doyle, Graham, Raymond, Edward and others.

The valedictory was charmingly delivered by Miss Cosgrave, as was also the address of wel-
